THREE OTTAWA EMPLOYERS RECEIVE EXCELLENCE AWARDS IN IMMIGRANT EMPLOYMENT

Wednesday, March 11, 2020 (Ottawa) – Hire Immigrants Ottawa (HIO) and the Employer Council of Champions (ECC) presented three Employer Excellence Awards today at the 2020 Employer’s Summit. The Awards recognize local employers for their innovative workplace policies and practices around the recruitment and integration of skilled immigrant employees into their organizations.

The theme of this year’s Summit was The Future of Work and Immigration and included a keynote address by Sunil Johal, an expert on modern labour standards, technology and social policy. Sunil addressed the impact of disruptive technologies on work, the role immigrants will play in the forthcoming economy, and how employers can position themselves to attract and include immigrant talent to benefit their workplaces.

“This year’s theme is an important and timely topic,” said Frank Bilodeau, Vice President, Scotiabank, Ottawa Centre and Gatineau and ECC Co-Chair. “We know that many employers are uncertain about the availability of key skills, major shifts in the economy, and how the changing nature of work will impact jobs.”

The Summit brought together more than 100 senior executives, civic leaders, and human resources professionals from business, government, and not-for-profit sectors to exchange ideas and best practices to support the integration of immigrants into Ottawa’s labour force.

“Ontario is facing a skilled labour shortage,” said Hon. Monte McNaughton, Minister for Labour, Training and Skills Development. “That is why our province’s future requires immigrants with the skills and experience our economy needs. I am committed to attracting skilled workers to the province to fill gaps in the labour market, meet the needs of employers and help businesses grow, for the benefit of the people of Ontario.”

“This year’s award-winning organizations demonstrate progressive and unique ways of attracting and retaining top talent as the labour market tightens,” said Gaye Moffett, Founder, GEM Healthcare Services, and ECC Co-Chair. “It is equally important that employers create inclusive environments where all employees feel valued, are engaged and empowered to contribute fully.”
